Step 2

Latest version of your statement for studying Chemistry:

Section 1
Why do you want to study this subject?

Edit >

7 September 2016   I enjoy studying Chemistry....

30 of 1200 characters

Section 2
What have you done in the past that makes you particularly suitable to study the subject?

Edit >

7 September 2016   When I first went to the Science Museum....

43 of 2400 characters

Section 3
What else have you done that would contribute to the university community?

Edit >

7 September 2016   As the youngest rower of GB's Olympic team....

46 of 400 characters

At the top you can see the university subject for which you are writing the Statement. This can be edited by simply clicking on the green text.

The tool splits your Personal Statement into three sections. You can complete these in any order.

Step 3

Examples of what you may want to write about:

- ⊕ 1. Your knowledge of the subject area
- ⊖ 2. Why this subject area interests you

English Literature with Creative Writing is the perfect subject for me. My love of literature has stimulated me to write creatively for pleasure – as well as posting my work online, I have had several short stories published in my school's annual magazine, including one which was inspired by reading the poet Wilfrid Owen for my English GCSE. Now, as well as extending my knowledge of a subject for which I have developed a passion, I want to study literature further as a catalyst for my own writing.

- ⊕ 3. What interests you the most about the subject area?
- ⊕ 4. Where your studies could lead
- ⊕ Personal Statement Dos
- ⊕ Personal Statement Don'ts

At the top of each section you will see some prompts in green text. Each one expands to show an example.

Do not try to use these as templates; the entries need to be personal to you.

Step 4

Whatever you type will be automatically saved within this box until you're ready to save it as a new version.

You can save as many versions as you like.

Step 5

Section 3
What else have you done that would contribute to the university community?
